Amistad: Amistad Center for Art and Culture Hartford BEC http://www.amistadartandculture.org/	In 1987 a handful of visionaries that included Trustees and staff of the Wadsworth Atheneum, joined forces with independent foundations, corporations and the State of Connecticut to purchase, protect and provide public access to the Randolph Linsly Simpson Collection, which was housed in the collector's farmhouse in Northford, Connecticut. This extraordinary collection of 6,000 works of art, artifacts and archives, documents more than three hundred years of the Black experience in America - a truly rich resource of immense educational value and testimony to America's diverse and dynamic culture. An organization was formed to carry out this important mission, The Amistad Foundation. The collection was placed at the Wadsworth Atheneum Museum of Art, the nation's oldest and continuously open public art museum and the first major museum in the region to house a gallery devoted to the subject matter of African American culture. Mission: Inspired by the collection, to interpret and celebrate African American art and humanities and to educate the public about their importance and influence in American life through education, scholarship and social experiences.	Micro (< 1M)

FIC: Families in Crisis Hartford BEC http://www.familiesincrisis.org/	Families in Crisis supports families whose lives and relationships have been disrupted when a family member enters the criminal justice system; strengthens communities by helping offenders rebuild their lives and reenter society; and promotes systemic change by educating the public and policymakers about the impact of incarceration on families and the connection between preserving family ties and reducing recidivism. In 1975, a small group of concerned citizens explored the need for services for women who had a loved one in prison; resulted in the formation of a Board of Directors in February of 1976 called Women in Crisis. The Agency incorporated in 1979 as a private not for profit and tax exempt organization. In 1985, the Agency changed its name to Families in Crisis, Inc. to better identify the population served. Families In Crisis focuses on the dynamics of the family unit and the significant role that these relationships play in helping offenders and their families rebuild their lives. FIC's services are an important addition to the criminal justice system's efforts to reduce recidivism and to prepare offenders to be productive members of their families and communities.	Small (2.2M)
